Mr. Boughas as a Backer of Lincoln and the Union. Mr. Douglas has an excellent faculty of acting up a principle and then kicking the often out of it. His great principle of popular sovereignty, which came over in the Mayforer, bus a proviso that "the measure" of sovereignty that the people may exercise, shall be decided by the Supreme Court. No Supreme Court came over in the Mauflower, so the imported article, in the original package, must have been defective.

At Norfolk he was very bold, and in response to the question, declared that the election of Lincoln, without any "overt act" on his part, against the Constitution, would not be any cause for Southern secession, and he proposed to back Lincoln in treating the secessionists as Gen. Jackson proposed to do the sullifiers. But in the same breath he said that, in his judgment, "the political opinions of Mr. Lincoln were hostile to the Constitution and the safety of the Union: also, that "in the event of the success of the Northern Abolitionists, the Union and our glorious Constitution are put in peril and jeopardy."

We suppose that the opinions of Mr. Lincoln, which Mr. Douglas thinks hostile to the Constitution and Union, are those in regard to the power of Congress to exclude elavery from the Territories. But Mr. Douglas says this is a question for the Supreme Court. The President appoints the Judges, and in case of the election of Lincoln he may, in the ordinary course of nature, have an opportunity to appoint a majority of the Court. Then his opinions, which are hostile to the Constitution and Union, will, by stitution. Still Mr. Doughs would be compelled to sustain him, although he had subverted the Constitution, because he had committed "no overt act."

We hardly know what Mr. Douglas meant by telling the Virginians that he would "take just as much pleasure in hanging Lincoln, if he transcended his constitutional powers, as he felt pleasure in knowing that they hanged John Brown." We do not know how a man can feel pleasure in knowing that any man was hanged, or take pleasure in being a hangman. It is a very low, as well as a very brutal pleasure. But if the President can appoint the Court, whose decisions make the Constitution, how can be possibly transcend his constitutional powers? He has only to will, and the Court will make it constitutional. Yet, Mr. Douglas promises to stand by a President in subverting the Constitution, and anticipates pleasure in hanging the Southerners who may stand by the integrity of that instrument.

If the Supreme Court has supreme power over constitutional and political questions, and their decisions are the Constitution, then the election of a President, who appoints the judges, and whose opinions are hostile to the Constitution and Union, is an overt act against both; and instead of waiting till the inauguration, and till the Constitution and Union have both passed into the power of an enemy to them, the South should secede at once. It is, according to Mr. Douglas's own theory of government, the Furthermore, if our Constitution is subject to a Supreme Court, which may be appointed by a President who is hostile to it, the sooner it is overthrown the better. If that is what our "glorious fabric of government" has come to, then, if the Southerners will lead off in such a revolution, they will deserve to be classed with Hancock, and Jefferson, and Henry, and John Adams, and the rest of the Revolutionary patriots.

An Incident of No Impertance.
The following was told us by one of our nost substantial citizens, who, having been called to the Police Court as a witness, saw this proceeding. Two small boys were arraigned. A policeman stated, in a loose manner, that chickens had been missed from the Hamilton and Dayton Depot, and he found that one of these boys had a chicken in the cellar where he lived. The boy said he gave a quarter for it. On this statement, without any evidence to identify the chicken, or to show that the boy came by it improperly, or that he had ever been near the depot, Judge Lowe sentenced both of the boys to the House of Refuge. One of them was sent for being in the company of the other, and the other for having a chicken. The sentence fell with all the weight of a sudden, unexpected and terrible calamity on the parents of the boys. They could hardly believe that for such an unfounded suspicion of a thing, so trivial even if it could have been proven, their children were to be taken from them for their whole minority, a stigma fixed upon them for life, and sent to a penal institution which is but the half-way house to the penitentiary. The mother's cries and moans of mingled terror and grief started tears into the eyes of the most hardened among the bystanders.

No Safety Except for Robbery.

An evening paper yesterday reported a case before the Police Court, in which a person was fined $50 and costs, and sent to prison for ten days, for carrying a concealed Bowie-knife; also, that the citizens in the neighborhood of Forest-avenue, in the Seventeenth Ward, are compelled to go armed, both night and day, to protect themselves from the feetpade, burglars and other des-perate characters, who lie in wait to rob and plunder. Then the citizens of the Bevonteenth Ward are all criminals, according to our Police Court, and should be fined $50 cach and sent up. Our Police Court is for the purpose of giving immunity to crime, and to tie the hands of the people from self-protection. All this makes fees, and is not that the chief end of Polics Court law?

A Free Press-The Hope of the World. The civilization of the age is supposed to be chiefly due to the refining influences of the newspapers. Up at the lively town of Toledo, the standard of high-toned journalism is to charge a political opponent or a public officer with sheep-stealing; and no matter how efficiently a public officer discharges his official duties, or how well secured the public interests may be which are entrusted to him, it by no means satisfies the high standard set up by the newspapers; but his character is overhauled, and his private vices, if he has any-and it is not necessary to be very accurate about that—are published for the benefit of the people. If he has ever fought the tiger, or had any improper intimacies with women, or if there is any scandal attached to his name, no matter how remotely, it is raked up and kept before the people during his whole term of office.

This, of course, brings the private characters of the editors, and all the relations in life, of all of the candidates for office, into the newspapers; though it is only the private vices of the candidates of the opposite party that are regarded as censurable; any amount of immorality is covered up in one's own party. This system elevates scandal into "the freedom of the press," and calls it "the spread of light and knowledge." As election approaches, it grows more virulent. It is the life and soul of the papers. When this falls off they are dull and stupid. This literature, of course, has a high moral effect on the people. If the pugilistic ring, bull-fighting, bear-baiting, cock-fighting, and fighting the tiger, were elevated into institutions, under the patronage of the Church and the Common Council, they could hardly compete with such a newspaper press in demor-alizing and brutalizing the community. We, of course, intend nothing personal nor offensive in this, but merely use this example to comment on the depraving tendenjudicial decision, be made a part of the Con- | cles of such journalism, wherever it is found.

ampico, late and interesting advices have een received from Mexico. The Liberal army had invested the city of The Liberal army had invested the city of Mexico with an immense army, and all their troops in Tampico and the neighboring country had been sent out to re-enforce them, and it was expected that they would make an attack about the 10th of September. Minamon was at a small town about twenty miles from the City of Mexico with about 2,000 men, but it is the general impression throughout the whole country that he can not hold out much longer. The report that was brought here some time since by the steamship Austin, from Braxos Santiago, that Gen. Zunzua, of the Liberal army, was killed in an engagement with Miramon, is corroboengagement with Miramon, is corrobo-ed at Tampico.

From a letter dated Tampico, August 8, we gather the following news: A conducta arrived from the interior some few days ago, bringing $2,047,150. The drouth is reported as very severe, and this, with the marauding bands which infest the with the marauding bands which intest the interior, will very soon bring the country to utter ruin. Great fears of a famine are entertained in the interior, and there is not a single bushel of corn or wheat in the granaries, which formerly supplied the wants of the people. This state of things is, no doubt, the consequence of the internal struggle which has lasted since Comonfort left the country. The noulation is either consequence. country. The population is either coerced into the ranks or compelled to flee from their oppressors into the mountains, thus leaving Mr. Douglas's own theory of government, the only way to defend the Constitution.

Mr. Douglas can not expect that the South will remain inactive until the Union and the Constitution and the appointment of the Supreme Court have passed into the power of one who, he says, is hostile to the Constitution and Union, merely because they differed in regard to the policy of nominating him. Really, if Mr. Lincoln is what Mr. Douglas represents him, his running for the Presidency, is an "overt act," and Mr. Douglas is logically bound by his own declaration, to claim the pleasure of hanging him now.

The Baletin Federal reports that Miramon had suddenly disappeared for parts unknown, abandoning his army, which circumstance inspires the Federals with new hopes. I think it a vague rumor, without the least shadow of truth.

More Startling News from Texas-Attempt to Fire the Town of Athens-A Number of White Men and Negroes Hanged and Spot-Belleview Reported Burned to the Ground.

A letter dated the 11th inst., at Dallas,

Texas, has the following:

I saw a letter received last night by a gentlemm of this town, from a friend at Athens, stating that an attempt had been made at that place to fire the town; that two white men had been hung, some negroes shot, and others hung. All sorts of rumors are afloat, and most of them partake of the horrible. One fact is ascertained beyond a doubt, except in the minds of those who are wilfully skeptical on the subject, that every negro who has been implicated in this plot, even more than 100 miles off, has testified to the same fact, same dates, names and circumstances that were detailed here at Dalhas. Such men as those who pronounce these things a ridiculous farce, are men whose affinities and proclivities lead them most naturally to such a conclusion.

The following is from the Jefferson Herald of the 11th: "We learn by a gentleman who left Marshall Thursday morning, that the incendiaries who fired the town of Henderson, on the 5th inst, have been overhauled and appreciated to the proposition of the proposition of the proposition of the first and proposition of the fact as a related and appreciated services of the facts as related and appreciated services. Texas, has the following :

cendiaries who fired the town of Henderson, on the 5th inst., have been overhauled and summarily numshed. The facts as related to us are briefly these: Three persons left Henderson immediately after the conflagration, under very suspicious circumstances. They were followed by a committee of the citizens, and overtaken on the road to Marshall. Perceiving themselves pursued, they turned to fight, when one of them was shot dead from his horse, and the other two were taken and hung forthwith.

The Tyler Reporter, of the 7th, says that a report has just reached there that Belleview, in Rusk County, was burned on the night of the 4th inst.

A quiet, malleable, docide creature he seems to be, whose faculties would readily yield to the influence of any stronger and boldur powers, whether good or bad, which might be brought to bear upon him.

The Power of a Foreign Foe Over En' gland. The Possibility of its Capture Through Landon. The Cornfill Magazine in its last issue re

The Cornhill Magazine in its last insue remarks:

If ever the invasion of England be attempted, the point to be aimed at by the invader will be the capture of London; and for the very simple reason that it alone will repay the costs and ricks of an attack. If Portsmouth dockyard were destroyed, Devouport would remain; if both were lost, there would be Chatham; give all three to an enemy, and we have Pembroke, let them take all four, and England might still build ships in the Clyde, and the Severa, and the Mersey, by private enterprise; better, perchance, than in royal dockyards, the gunboat failures notwithstanding. An enemy would not be likely to place himself permanently on Portland Hill, or any other part of England, to capitulate and make terms. What might bappen if a conqueror were to get possession of the Bank of England, and appoint a General of Division Governor protein, who would make the bank parlor his head-quarters, and bid his soldiers mount guard over the buillion vaults, it is difficult to say.

With London in a state of sleeps, a Provont-to say.

With London in a state of siege, a Provost-Marshal installed at the Mansion House, a park of artillery on Tower Hill, the Royal Exchange and Guildhall converted into military posts, and foreign soldiers quartered upon the inhabitants, there would be no quotations of Consols on the Stock Exchange, nor any of the usual telegrams or quotations of Consois on the Stock Exchange, nor any of the usual telegrams or leading articles in the newspapers. The Government would be powerless for any thing but making terms with the invading foe; Parliament would be no where; martial law alone would prevail; our glorious Constitution would be abrogated, and the monarchy itself might be in jeopardy. The day of England's disgrace and humiliation might inaugurate a saturnalia of brutal soldiery; crime and misery, such as the imagination recoils from conceiving, might desolate our hearth and homes; and destruction of property to the value of untold millions would involve paralysis of commerce, death of credit, stoppage of manufactures, ruin of trade and the dissolution of every bond of law and society; may, even this frightful calamity might be hightened by the horrors of the sack of London.

GAMBLING AT SANATOGA-A STYVLISH SPORTING ITEM."-A Saratoga correspon dent of the Troy (N. Y.) Times says that two Boston men are the largest winners of the gambling season at that favorite place, and one of them is a man nearly sixty years of age, who formerly kept a hotel in Albany, and falling in the business, in a moment of desperation, at the age of forty, took up the profession of a gambler. Fortune seemed to attend him from the first, and he is now estimated to be worth $200,000-all of which he has gained at hazard. He has his servants in livery at the Springs, his fast horses, carriages, and to one unacquainted with his profession, he appears a wealthy man of the world, polished and refined in his manners, and a gentleman of abundant means, who has come to recruit his health by a morning has come to recruit his health by a morning draught at the Congress, or to drive upon the avenue. He is reckoned to be the smartest and most lucky gambler in the country. Few would imagine that he is other than what he seems, yet he is only a type of a large class of persons who annu-ally assemble at Saratoga and pass for per-sons of the highest respectability.

A lady was dressed as a Vestal, and was leaning upon the arm of her husband. Some one near made an undertone remark about the appropriatenes of the character. Very silly in itself. But was much more absurd for the husband to overhear the observation, to leave his wife, and fling his glove into the face of the gentleman who had committed himself by word of mouth. Preux chevalier-fashion, the glove was taken up, and this nimeer by word of mouth. Freux caevauer-fashion, the glove was taken up, and this stupid affair led to an exchange of cards, a visit the next day, and an arrangement for wormwood scrubs—and the husband of the Vestal took home a ball in his hip which will spoil his dancing for a long time. I thought we had got out of the fighting mania, and to more sensible monds. more sensible moods.

TOM SAYERS'S ENCOUNTER WITH A CARMAN THE TERROR OF HIS NAME.—As Tom Sayers was recently driving along the Holloway-road, near London, the wheel of his chaise road, near London, the wheel of his chaise came in contact with that of a cart, whose driver put his whip across Tom's shoulders. This was too much for the champion; he alighted and promptly hauled the carman from his cart. The Jarvey rejoined by felling Tom to the ground. Hereupon the bystanders, recognizing Sayers, shouted, "Halloo, Tom, you have got hold of another Heenan?" The sound of Tom Sayers's name was enough for the carman, who quickly mounted his vehicle, and whopped his "Cobbin and drove away," evidently conscious that he had "caught a Tartar," but was not desirous to investigate farther the peculiarities of his catch.

powers. In short, through the assistance of some superior power, she is endowed with the Healing Art. Madame Heliard is a physician indeed? She cares the following complaints in their most obstinate stages, viz. Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Heart, Liver, Stomach, Dropsy in the Chest, Rhounniam, Seuralsia, Fit, or Falling Sickness, and all other Nervous Berangements. Also, Diseases of the blood, such as Scrotinia, Egyspelax, Cancers, Fever Bores, Leprosy, and all other complicated Chronic Complaints.

All forms of female difficulties attended to with the happicar results.

It is hoped no on will despair of a cure until for have given Radame H. a medicine a trial.
Dould mants, of restoring to bealth and vigor thousands who were on the verge of the grave, and who are now living monuments of her skill and successful readment, and ser daily exclaiming, "Biessed be the day when we first saw and partook of Mad.
Holiard's survivaled medicines."

Satisfactory references will be choerfully given when required. Madame H. will pledge her reputation and stake her all to make permanent cures in all cases which she undertakes.

Her mode of examination is with a clairroyant eye, or second-sight. She, therefore, asks no quesflows, now does she require invalids to explain symptous, tolling their cause and location with so much satisfaction as to merit and receive the confidence of all who have consulted her.

N. B.—Madame Hollard absolutely advertises nothing but what she has full ability to perform.

Persons living at a distance, by giving a statement of their cases, will be attended to promply
